Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 10 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 10, line 1 "mold device" should be changed to "apparatus" so as to have proper antecedent basis.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1-11, 17 and 18 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's disclosed prior art taken together with Naito et al. Pat. No. 5,656,307.
5. Applicant discloses the injection molding of a vehicle headlamp by simultaneously molding the extension reflector and the inner lens. Naito teaches the molding of the accessory components in a cavity with the larger component around the smaller component so as to produce the components at the same time and reduce the number of molds for producing the components. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to apply the teaching of Naito to applicant's disclosed prior art so as to reduce the number of molding steps and the number of molds. Both references deal with the injection molding of multiple components and thus are combinable.

6. Claims 12-13 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's disclosed prior art taken together with Naito et al. Pat. No. 5,656,307 as applied to claims 1-11, 17 and 18 above, and further in view of Wiedemann et al. Pat. No. 6,866,808.

7. Wiedemann teaches the resin passing from a first cavity to a second cavity. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to pass the material from a first cavity to a second cavity so as to reduce the amount of waste when feeding the material through multiple runners. It would have been obvious to apply the teaching of Wiedemann to applicant's disclosed prior art and Naito depending upon the shape of the article so as to produce the least amount of waste by using shorter distances in the connecting runners.

8. Claims 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over applicant's disclosed prior art taken together with Naito et al. Pat. No. 5,656,307 as applied to claims 1-11, 17 and 18 above, and further in view of Goldbach Pat. No. 6,780,365.

9. Goldbach teaches the injection of a first resin into a first mold cavity and a second resin into a second mold cavity via separate supply passages. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to combine the teaches of Naito with Goldbach since the teaching of reduction of the size of the molds and the number of molds and steps of molding by Naito would have clearly been applicable when molding with a first and second resin into separate cavities on the same parting plane.
